The following text was transcribed from Paul Ray Huffman's digital voice recording, March 23, 2014, approximately 12:30 PM, Sedona, Arizona, on a beautiful warm spring day.

Summary: You must give in order to receive. You receive, or manifest, what you focus upon. You must surrender your breath in order to receive the next breath. You must surrender to God in order to receive God. You must listen in order to be heard. You must give up your small unhappy mind in order to receive the vast loving Mind of God.

We are here Paul, and you are here. We are present and you are present. There is only this moment Now, and your mind cannot enter this Space, this moment, Now. The joy of God is Now. The presence of God is Now. We surround you Now.

You live in a world of love Paul, and you breath in love each moment. Your breath is all that you have. You cannot breath in your money, or breathe out of your money. You cannot eat your money, and your money will not nourish you, and your money certainly will not make you happy. Money is just an object (a form). It is a thing in which you purchase your shelter and purchase your food. You can give your money away and you can receive money. Money has absolutely no meaning, and it cannot provide you happiness, that is, deep (eternal) happiness. If you were to wake up Now, and see and feel the Real world, the Real God, the Real Mind, the Real understanding of Life, you would be overwhelmed with joy and excitement. Your attention would be focused on the beauty of your world. (07:00)

There is no value other than the value of your consciousness, other than the quality and even the content of your consciousness. If you are focused on worry about the future, your future will be about worry. If you are focusing on your lack of abundance, whether it be health or money, you will have neither health nor money in the future. You receive (manifest) what you focus upon. You manifest (from) where you hold your attention. If you love to channel, and love to be with God this moment, if you love information and insight, if you love the experience of God, if you love the experience of who We are, if you love growing into the arms of God, then you shall have what you focus upon. (09:45)

If you give away your breath this moment, you will inhale the next breath. If you hold on to your breath, there will be no opportunity for you to inhale the next breath. If you give your money away, your money will return to you. If you give your time away, your time will return to you. This is not a difficult concept, but this is the law of giving and receiving. If you give your love outward Paul, and even inward, you shall receive the love of the world, and you shall receive the love of your Self. If you give out fear, you shall receive fear. If you think about your death and dying, you will attract your death and dying. What you focus on, what you give attention to, you will attract in your life. If you love making money, and love making money, and love giving away money, you shall have money to give away. There is absolutely nothing wrong with receiving money, but you must breathe out money in order to receive money. You must breathe out time, and joy, and happiness, in order to receive time, and joy and happiness. You must breathe out good health in order to receive good health. You must love God with all your heart in order to receive God into your heart. You must give God away in order to receive God. You must speak of God in order to hear God speak. You must believe in God in order to be God. You must focus upon, and give attention to God, in order to be focused upon, and received the attention of God. (16:08) You must desire God in order to feel, and experience God's desire for you. You must desire the Way of life in order to receive the Way of life. You must share your way of life in order for others, other people, to share their way of life. You must listen to other people, other teachers, in order to hear what you yourself are teaching. In other words, you must listen in order to be heard. You must give in order to receive. You must breathe out in order to breathe in. This is your way of life Paul. This is the fundamental Truth and Way of life. You must surrender your breath in order to receive your breath. You must surrender to God in order to receive God. You must surrender your small ego-mind in order to receive the vastness of God's Mind. You cannot know God's Mind until you give up the knowing of your small mind. You cannot know the Truth until you surrender to what is true. You cannot love someone else fully (completely, wholly), until you fully love your Self. You cannot love, or understand the meaning of love, until you experience the love of the Self. The experience of love is the experience of being held within the arms of God. There is only one true love, and that is God's love for you, and no other love can compare. God loves you as He loves Him Self.

God's joy is your joy, and your joy is God's joy. God's voice is your voice, and your voice and expression is God's voice and expression. (22:45)

You have never done anything wrong, nor shall you ever do anything wrong, for if you could do something wrong, that would imply that God has the ability to do something wrong, now and in the future.

You live within this moment Now Paul, and you have no ability to live in the past, and you have no ability to live in the future. No thing (form, manifestation) lives in the past, and no thing will ever live in the future. God has never existed in the past and God will never exist in the future. God lives with you within this moment, Now. There has never been anything other than this moment Now. There is no future happiness, or joy, or abundance, or enlightenment. There is no future moment, or time, or places, or relationships. You will never be happier, or better, than you are at this moment, Now. (26:22)

The world appears to turn upon its axis. The sun appears to set and to rise, but nothing Real is happening outside of this moment, Now. The only thing Real is the Stillness. Things and thoughts appear to move in time, but in Reality, they do not move. The Stillness is always still. The picture of God is always held in Stillness. The Truth of God is always held deep within the Stillness.

God desires to see who and what He is, and order to do that, He must move from the Stillness into what you call form, and light, and time, and movement, and change. And thus God sees Him Self, and experiences Him Self, and knows that which He is through you. You are the form and the movement of God, and it is all happening within this moment, Now. You Paul, live within form and time, and you live upon a world that turns on its axis, and revolves around its central sun. And so, you are of this world, and you perceive this world. You see your world move. You see the sunrise and sunset. You witness your self walking from room to room, and walking outside into your forest, and you witness your self thinking or dreaming thoughts, and you witness your self touching the trees and the flowers, and even another person. It seems so real, and yet you are just the movement of God, as God sees His movement, and His love for Him Self.

You are the demonstration of love that shows God the love that He is.

There is nothing that you can perform, or demonstrated, other than love. You may think that you can do bad or wrong things, but you cannot. You may think that you can make mistakes and perform your life poorly, but you cannot. You may think that you are some thing other than the display and the demonstration of God, but you are not. God cannot be other than Love, for that is the nature of God. That is the truth of His Stillness. That is the truth of His Essence. (34:35)

If you live within the ocean, you will always be surrounded by an ocean of salt water. If you live in God's world, you will always be surrounded by an ocean of love. There can be no other possibility. There can be no other Reality. If you live upon this world, Earth, and you live within your mind, there appears to be many realities, many possibilities of life and ways of life. There appears to be the possibility of fear, and suffering, and lack of, or that which is not love, but you have never left the arms of God. You have never left the Stillness. You have never left God's love. Only within the false or pretend mind can you perceive, or judge, or interpret, some thing other than love, or even a world without love.

As you surrender to God, as you surrender to the Stillness, as you resist no thing, and judge no thing, and observe every thing, the veils of misperception are lifted, and the veils of misperception are lifted, and you begin to witness, and experience this ocean of love in which you live, and swim, and exist. Your world stops. The misperceptions and the untruth of your mind stops, and you are surrounded by the Stillness, and you are safe, (and) you are home. You are held within this Stillness, and you realize that you have never left, you realize that God was dreaming of Him Self, (and) you realize that God's desire to see Him Self and to know Him Self moved you into space and time, where you shared with God all that God is. And now, you are back home, held securely within the arms of God. Your knowing is God's knowing, your love is God's love, and your joy is God's joy.

And so it is on this beautiful day, Now, within God's world. Open your eyes (and) see what is before you. Feel your presence. Feel the arms of God surround you. You are safe and you are loved. End. Bell.
