

It is Time to Surrender to God Within

Summary:

I am God's body, hands, feet, movement.

My mantra is "God is with me, God is within me."

The pretend mind fades as I surrender to God running my life and movement.

Is it not a beautiful day today, Paul? The sun is shining and the birds are singing and all is well in your world. A world of great harmony. A world at peace with itself. A world held within the heart of God. A world in which you are a part of.

There's nothing to do today Paul, no place to go, no one even to call. No concerns. It is your day to practice being within the real self discovering the real Paul. Your mind wishes to pull you, direct you, even energize you by becoming angry or upset about a certain problem. And that is the way it guides you. It pulls you. It leads you down a certain path because you become angry or agitated or concerned or worried. And you follow with your body a certain direction. And that direction often leads you in circles.

It is time, is it not, to be present with God, to live within God no matter what. To use this 1% of you, this pretend self with its beliefs and with its misinformation, with its personality, charm or not so charming, with its anger and even with its love and happiness, excitement. Use it to turn to face God, to be with God, to allow God to come through you and to speak and to make decisions. Allow the Holy Ghost of your being, the Spirit of God, the Spirit of Creation, the is-ness of God and the is-ness of Creation to find the is-ness of you.

You can allow this pretend self to be active in the background, even angry, upset, concerned, worried, and you can shift your attention away from it as you are doing now and listen, listen to the peace of God. Listen to what the truth is. Who you are is the nature of God. Even with this 1% which acts out, that moves you, that misdirects you. Even with this aberration the aberration is not strong enough to move you against the desires and the will of God. Your prayer of surrender is a prayer of surrender. It is an affirmation, it is a mantra.

"Dear Father God, here I am. I sit before you ready to fall into your arms, ready to fall into your heart, ready to fall into your mind, awareness. All that you are is all that I am." Your mind, Paul, has no power unless you give it power. The pretend self is the controlling self. And it does not wish to share power, just as it does not want to share this house, this space upstairs. It wants to do what it wants to do. And you set your intention and set your intention to be happy, to be at peace, to write, to speak, to have more and more of an understanding of who and what God is.

God is not your crazy pretend mind that moves you, moves you as you wander off in some anger or worry or concern. God is not concerned about your properties, Paul. God is not concerned about your fence or your railing of the color of your house. God is not even concerned with your relationship with Joanne. God wishes to express Himself through you. God wants you to be who you are, Paul, that which you are - His Creation, His object of Creation. His hands, His voice, His body, feet, movement, expression, love. If your personality self wishes to become angry and scream, so be it. Give it the time that it needs to do that. And then your intention is to listen, to be. Your pretend self is not the boss of you. It is a servant unto you, the greater part of you, the God part of you. It is a servant unto God.

The pretend mind, Paul, will fade. It will fade. The fear within you, the fear will fade, the concern will fade. Stand aside and watch your personality. Watch as you already do what it thinks, what it does, how it acts. Your personality, thoughts, beliefs, words, are what they are, Paul. You do not necessarily need to control them. They, too, need to express. But they can, your words and your thoughts and your personality, can express in the air or on paper. You can scream into the air and allow your frustrations to dissipate, to become no more.

As death approaches, as death approaches, what do you want to feel at those moments in which your eyes close and your breath begins to fade? Do you want to think about someone damaging your property or the color of your railing on your rental house? Or do you want to feel the beauty and the love of God? As you surrender your houses and your land, even your money and your property, your stuff, your things of life, you become freer. You become responsible for less and less. Less and less. Becoming present, Paul, as you have discovered, is very difficult to walk that line as your mind wants to pull you off this particular line, this balance with God. Mind wishes to take you into a future conversation or a past anger. Your life is for the sake of God. Your life is not to be lived for your personality, for the desires and the wants of your personality. Surrendering to God means total surrender to God. It means that every part of you becomes subservient, a servant to the will and desire of God. And even to the will and the desire of this planet, or this tree outside your window. Your body is of this Earth and it will return to this Earth. No matter what you think you are, no matter who you think you are or what you have accomplished or need to accomplish, you will end up within the soil of this Earth. Your flesh and your bones will decay eventually and become again, again, the water and the minerals of this Earth. You have sprung from this Earth and you will return to this Earth.

The idea of who you are will dissipate, decay, as your body decays. The only thing that lives is God seeing you, being inside of you now, now. You may be a tree in the next moment and God is inside of you, or a bug on the ground or a star in the heavens. The only thing that lives and continues to live forever is God desiring to see Himself, to be Himself through His Creation.

You can repeat and repeat as a mantra, "God is with me. God is inside of me. The love of God is inside of me. Who I am is peace and love. Who I am is the blueness of the sky and the greenness of this tree outside my window. Who I am is connected to everything. Who I am is connected to everything. Who I am is hidden, hidden within the heart of God and it is there I must go to find myself. I must go within the arms of God. I must go within the mind of God. And reemerge upon this Earth as a walking thing, object, of God. As I listen and interact with my personality and pretend self, I will have less and less a life, less and less time on this Earth. Wasted moments, wasted days."

It is time, is it not, to be here now, to be present, Paul, to review your channelings and lessons and words. Is it not time for you to be creative within the heart of God as He, we, creation speak to you of our desire to see who we are, to see the love that we are, to express the beauty of God?

God unfolds within you and then out from you, Paul. These words are out from you and the feeling of God is within you. Where is Paul's personality at this moment? It's not coming forth, it's not interrupting. It's allowing these words to come forth. It has no power to stop these words. It is overwhelmed by this soft power, this whisper, this love, beauty that exists within God. As it centers upon your heart you center upon God's heart. As you whisper these words, God whispers words to you. You sing a song to God, Paul, and God sings a song to you. You do your best to open and God does His best to come within you. Every moment is an opportunity, Paul, every moment is an opportunity to be with God. God stands before you and within you each moment, each moment. He waits for you to calm yourself and to move your attention back into Him. He waits for you to open so that He might enter.

We are the voice of Creation as you are now the voice of Creation. We are the voice of God as God moves through us and as we interpret, you might even say filter, the power of God, the Presence of God, so you might receive God through us, that you might know God through us. Surrender your properties, Paul. Surrender your time, your sleep, your words, your body. Practice surrendering all of your actions. Surrender your "things to do" list and make your connection with who you are a priority. Practice being who you are through surrender and then a deeper surrender and then an even deeper surrender. As you become empty, Paul, God fills you.

Let go, Paul. And let go. And let God move through you. Gather what's important to you. It may be money, it may be these tapes, these words, and listen to the wind as it moves through the trees. Listen to the sound of nature. Smell the beautiful flowers on your walk. See these beautiful mountains around you. Quiet down Paul and surrender. Quiet. Quiet.

And so it is, Paul, and so it is.
